DR JOHN ARMSTRONG'S LIVER PILLS. "I care not how I am physicked, so it be not by the adven-ture of a Quack, but advice of a Physician, who I am sure will prescribe no more for me than may consist with my safe-ty, and need doth require."—Old Divine.

FINE possessor of the Prescription from which these Pill are prepared, solely for him, by Mr John T. Eddy, a scientific Chemist, o tained it from the late Dr Armstrong, (Lecturer at St Thomas's Ho-pital, London, and author of the celebrated works on Typhus and Scarlet Fever, &c. &c.) for his wife, who in 1827 became the Doctor's patient, when evidently laboring under confirmed Liver complaint, and to all appearance in a deep decline. She had not long taken the Pills, at the prescribed intervals, before she was perfectly restored to health; and has, with the occasional use of them, continued free from pain, and in perfect health and cheerful spirits ever since.

The possessor of this admirable Prescription (a genueman of private fortune) having distributed the Pills with the most of private fortune) having distributed the Pills with the most of private fortune in many counties in ext aordinary success amongst the Poor in many counties in England, in 1835, defermined to off r them at a price, to the public—nis personal observation and experience having convinced him that they would prove a real blessing, if taken according to the Physician's advice and directions in the wrapper, to all—both old and young, children as well as adults: women, pregnant, and after the month of confinement—who suffered from an inactive Liver, and thence all the attendant miseries of Indigestion—Billious Affections, so called—Flatu-lence, Jaundice, Dropsy—Pain In the Sides and under the Shoulder Elades—Difficulty of Breathing—distressing sensa-tion of Choking—with the complexion and white of the eyes

The very first two Pills generally afford such relief—such ease from every distressing pain—that the patient is at once surprised and delighted. The Medicine is gentle, though certain in its benign effects. The quantity prescribed to be taken is small, and not oftener than alternate nights.

The following Letter has been addressed to Mr Eddy by one of the Agents at Birmingham.

Birmingham, March 18th, 1836.

Sir,
The character which I have received of the efficacy of Dr John Armstrong's Liver Pills, induces me to anticipate that a very considerable sale will, be effected here. A Clergyman residing in this town has stated to me that he attributes the speedy revival of his family of six children and a visitor from a fever, to the application of the Liver Pills. This opinion was founded upon the circumstance that the only child to which he did not give them on sickening of the fever, had it very severely, and lay above a week in a very dangerous ate, evincing alarming symptoms which not one of the others had. I have likewise received similar testimonials of their efficacy from other parties of respectability.

BOSTON MORNING POST.

For the Boston Morning Post. TEXAS.

REV. DR. CHANNING'S LETTER TO HENRY CLAY CONCLUDED.

Incited by their first, but dearly-bought victory, Gen

Urrea received orders to besiege Goliad, with the force under his command; the reader will remember that this post, (a far more important one than the fort of de Bexar) was, at the time of which we speak, occupied by Texans; the force was 350 men. Gen Samuel Houston, then at the head of the main army, despatched very positive infect a junction with the main army, as soon as possible, first blowing up the fort. The strength of the position was such, that Fanning withdrew his troops from Goliad with great reluctance. The fort being blown up, he had marched his men for about two hours, when a very large Mexican force of cavalry and infantry surrounded them in a large prairie. As a contest with such numbers would have been mere recklessness, a wanton waste of life, the advanced guard of 25 men, cut off from the main body of Fanning's command, effected their escape. Fanning repulsed with admirable bravery the charges of both cavalry and infantry, retreating as he fought. He at length gained a small Island of timber, as isolated woods in prairies are there called. This grove was immediately surrounded. In the morning the enemy showing a white flag, Col Fanning went out to meet the Mexican general. A capitulation was agreed upon. The stipulations were, that his force should lay down their arms, return to Goliad, and after there remaining for a few days, to be shipped to New Orleans from Copano. They surrendered on these conditions. After remaining a few days at Goliad, it was told Fanning, that a vessel was ready to receive them. He marched out his forces in file, the Mexicans each side of him; when they had thus proceeded for five miles ORDERS charge, nearly every man fell ! only three escaped !-

What a TREACHEROUS, INHUMAN, DEVILISH deed !

Does language afford epithets sufficiently foul to apply to these INCARNATE HELL-HOUNDS ? Contrast the murder of these chivalrous young Americans-the more than cannibal savageness with which they were destroyed-with the humane treatment received by the Mexicans at Goliad and San Antonia. Good God! it is impossible to think or write with any degree of composure, concerning this horrid butchery of the noble Georgia battalion.

Of whom was that battalion composed? OF HEALTHY,

VIGOROUS, HANDSOME SOUTHERNERS, OF REFIN-ED, WELL-EDUCATED, HIGH-MINDED GENTLEMEN; they were the flowers of chivalry, the pride of their families. High as this eulogy may seem, it is the sober, unvarnished, rigid truth. Such were the youths upon whose defenceless persons, the demons of Mexico glutted their barbarous vengeance. Can Dr Channing, a minister of the gospel, a preacher of peace, an enforcer of "the law of universal love," not merely sympathise with these bloodthirsty miscreants, but with the utmost tranquility, "amid scenes of peace and beauty," spur them on to a repetition of their inhuman carnage? He must be the most unsophisticated of human beings, if he does not perceive, that the tendency of such a letter, as that addressed to their officers to cross the Rio del Norte, but they cannot withstand the Texan army with its present strength and discipline. But to return: let me ask Dr Channing, with regard to his deep sympathy for the murderers of unarmed prisoners of war, "does it consist with individual honor, with individual virtue, to sustain with all your powers, a people guilty of crimes, which you were bound to reprobate and repress ?" However others may feel, or philosophise, or speculate, as for my single self, when reflecting upon the perfidious manner in which nearly 400 fine, high-hearted freemen were shot down by the base minions of a despot, the FREE BLOOD within these veins boils with an irrepressible indignation; from the bottom of my soul, I hurl upon the merciless assassins the deepest maledictions; as a fellow countryman of THAT IMMOLA-

Gen. Houston left his encampment on the Bruzos river, and crossed the San Jacinto. While there, a Texan scout dashed rapidly along the encampment, for the General's quarters; another followed more slowly, with a Mexican courier. From an examination of the letters contained in the saddle-bags, the all-important information was derived, that a division of the Mexican army, led by Santa Ana, was upon the Jacinto, within 15 miles.

Houston immediately marched from Buffaloe Bayou, to surprise the enemy, taking with him 750 men, two hundred being left for the protection of camp and baggage.

Afterarriving within sight of the Mexicans, an unsuccess-fid effort was made to bring them into battle. There was some skirmishing throughout the day; on the succeeding, the far famed battle occurred. The Texans marched in four divisions; nothing could withstand the impetuosity of their charge; in thirty minutes the enemy were completely routed. More than five hundred prisoners were taken. Were they deliberately shot down, while unarmed and defenceless? No! though it was well known to the army that nearly every Texan prisoner had been massacred, by these Mexicans, with all the revolting acrocity of their antagonists most vividly impressed on stance had they reason to entertain a harsh thought of their captors. The Mexican boys, of whom there was likewise a large number, became strongly attached to the Texans, from the brotherly usage received at their hands; and it was a positive fact, worthy of all commendation. that though sugar and molasses were almost unknown to the camp, yet, on several occasions, when rations of either were dealt out, the considerate, good-hearted Texans, availing themselves of their little store, made cakes for the Mexican youths, knowing that the ordinary, coarse fare of the army could not be so tolerable to their delicate palates, as it was to adults. Trivial as these offices of kindness may at first seem, in a land of plenty, yet do they structions to Col Fanning, to abandon the town, and efspeak VOLUMES in favor of the noble-hearted Texans. Kindness so unexpected, so undeserved, made such an impression on the Maxicans, that not a man of them would ever acknowledge that he had been engaged in the pre-

> With this statement, I confidently submit to the reader's judgment whether Dr C.'s delineation of Texan character be true? whether the Texans are the miscreants which their villifiers declare ? Are not the blind in New England leading the blind on this subject? Are not the few guiding the many? And is not that few composed of lovers of Centralism, and the fanatical haters of Texas, because her Constitution, though excluding slaves from Africa, admits their introduction from the United States. It certainly is not fair, nor reasonable, to denounce a cause so just as that of Texas, the cause of human rights, because her Constitution contains an objectionable feature. If men will persist in this attitude towards Texas, then, 1 say, LET THEM OPENLY DEPRECATE THE SUCCESS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION. 'As Dr Channing asserts that Texas has been piratically wrested from Mexico, we are anxious to add a few remarks, to what has already been advanced, concerning the claims of Texans to a home, in the now infant Republic. Under the Spanish dominion what was Texas? A wilderness, occupied by the Cumanches, an Indian nation, more formidable in war than any other, save the Seminoles; who, in the digastrous Florida war, confirmed the high opinion which has ever been entertained of their courage. Its vast prairies were trod only by wandering tribes of this nation, by the buffaloe, wild horse and deer. The country, therefore, was wholly unavailable, wholly useless to Mexico; for, besides a dread of the Cumanches, which prevented their settling in Texas, the want of energy and enterprise, peculiar to Mexicans, was wholly unsuited to the redemption of a wilderness.

It seems, then, that Mexico was deriving no revenue from Texas, nor was likely to receive any. She knew it only as a country lying between the Rto del Norte and the Sabine. Foreigners were, therefore, invited to emigrate, and the quantity of land given to each settler, shows, that there was no liberality in the grants, instead of proving the reverse; the offer of so many thousand butts of water from the Gulf of Mexico, would prove the government equally liberal! They could well afford to be prodigal of either ! Acceding to the government terms, the present colonists of Texas have, by their indomitable energy and industry, given a value to the lands, and won a fair title to them. They had pariently endured toil, and confronted danger, with the benef that they were securing homes to be favored, not only with a salubrious climate and rich soil, but the inestimable privileges of free institutions. Withwith the hope and belief, that of those who have read my remarks, a large number perceiving that they have no basis for their opinions, will examine for themselves. If not already convinced that Texas has been basely traduced. let them examine, investigate, digest, and then decide. I shall most confidently abide the result. With regard to the exterminating character of Mexican warfare, is it not strange that Dr Channing can consider, as worthy of his ardent sympathies, a cause so contaminated by Mexican barbarity? "It is in a civilized age, and amidst the refinement of manners, it is amidst the lights of science and teachings of Christianity, amidst the expositions of the law of nations, and enforcements of the law of universal love, amidst institutions of religion, that hordes have gone forth, from a Christian country," to perform acts at which humanity recoils; -to do deeds so abhorrent, so accursed, that one may well marvel why Heaven did not send among them a bolt, " red with uncommon wrath," to arrest the deed.

THE RECEPTION OF THE MESSAGE.

The Transcript of the last evening contains the following tianity" be true, the anathema of Almighty Justice shall statement in relation to the reception of the President's one day overwhelm their immolators with retribution . -The reverses of Texas continued, and when the most

"The Message -There were two Expresses to-day, bringing the President's Message. The first came at 20 neinutes before I o'clock. It was arranged for the joint battle of San Jacinto. The enemy had marched from benefit of the Advertiser, Courier, Gazette, Post and Herpoint to point, till he had gained the very heart of the ald offices, and was brought by Steamboat to New Haven, country; "and it seemed," in the language of a gentlethence by horse despatch to Worcester, and thence by man who was in the battle, and described it to me, "as if Railroad to Boston.

The other was employed exclusively by the Atlas, and was run by land all the way from New York. It came in at half-past one o'clock, and was the first to communicate the contents of the message to the public, it being read, immediately on arrival, at Merchants' Hall, whilst Extras were not issued from the other offices until half-

This is a full and candid account of the circumstances attending the arrival of the message; and we can see no just reason for the querulou-ness of those persons who find fault with us for communicating the message or ally to the public immediately on its reception. Several days since we apprised our readers that we had made arrangements for receiving it by express from New York. We made no mystery of our purpose—our proceedings were open and alsove hoard. What then was our surprise on learning yesterday morning that the allied presses named above had prepared to run an opposition to our Express, without informing the public of their intention, or apprising us of the nature of those arrangements, by which they would be enabled to anticipate us. What these arrangements were is stated in the extract from the Transcript.

By the aid of a steamboat corporation and a railroad corporation-the enlistment of steam against horse-fleshthe allied presses succeeded in beating, by about forty five minutes, an express got up by individual enterprise and exercion. There being a probability that we should be anticipated in the printing of the message, and having received more than one copy, we immediately adopted auother mode of publication, and gave it to a friend to communicate verbally to the public in the City Hall.

We do not regard our conduct as requiring any defence; but some persons having presumed to misrepresent it as deserving of reprehension, we have emered into these de-tails. Had the Herald, Advertiser, Post, Courier and Gazette fairly made public their design in sea on for us to arrest the expensive arrangements, which we had adopted for the benefit of the public, we should have yielded them with their relatives and friends; and in no single in. I the victory without an effort to retrieve what we had lost. But their underhand opposition was deserving rebuke.

Whatever the circumstances had been, we contend, that it was perfectly justifiable in us to communicate to the public the message, received by our own express, in what way we pleased-either by proclamation or by means the press. As it was, we completely turned the tables upon the getters-up of the opposition express-being the first to give the message to the public in this city, and to send it North. And had it not been for the unmatchable speed of the locomotive from Worcester, which was run against our horses, we should have had the Message some minutes in advance of our opponents.

The above whining, canting, jesuicical attempt to excuse a meanness and sordidness unparalleled, we venture to say, in the history of the Boston newspaper Press, was put forth by the Atlas yesterday, in extenuation of its conduct relative to the reception of the President's Message.

The magnanimous gentleman says-"We made no mystery of our purpose—our proceed-ings were open and above board."

Indeed! You made no mystery after you had monopolised, as you supposed, the course, by securing the only line of express which you believed could run with success -when this was done, and you thought yourself beyoud the reach of competition, you were "above board "-but were as silent as death previously : we announced our intention on Wednesday morning, before we had been assured that our arrangements had been effected, for the plan was not designed until Friday last. We wish that the Atlas had continued "above-board" a little while after it had once got there, but we suppose the awkwardness of its new position made it feel restive, and it immediately sunk to its natural level by meanly going round and soliciting subscriptions-from our personal friends among others-to defray the expense of its express, stating that there was to be only one, after it heard of ours, and had questioned an individual connected with our office about it! Was this "above board " ?

A large portion of the expense of the Atlas express was paid by subscriptions from Banks, Insurance offices, and individuals, and runners canvassed State street pretty thoroughly for the purpose of procuring these subscriptions; this is the way it has been paid in most instances for its "expensive arrangement," in obtaining news by express, and it was this system it intended to monopolise to the disparagement of its neighbors.

The Atlas certainly had a right to communicate the contents of the Message it received by the subscription express, in any manner it pleased, provided it had consulted those who were joint owners of it-but this it did not do, and had it publicly read in City Hall by the tail of the Committee of Public Safety, against the open remonstrance of several of the joint owners, merely to prevent the sale of copies issued by its successful rivals. The first attempt to read it was defeated by the honorable indignation of gentlemen present at so paltry a trick te injure those who had won the race, and it was only by a repeated effort that the consent of the audience was obtained to hear it, notwithstanding the great curiosity to know its contents. As for the "honorable" conduct of the Atlas, its refusal to give up the foreign papers the other evening which had been loaned to it only for its temporary accommodation, even upon an order from their owner, who was anxious to extend the same favor to the other papers, was even enough to eternally disgrace it, and was the most contemptible ruse that we ever knew a Boston editor to be guilty of. The way it choused us out of the message two years ago, after it had made an agreement to run an express with us, when it was too late for us to procure a copy of it in advance of the mail, in any other way, we still remember-but it is unnecessary to enumerate the circumstances now-its more recent conduct is enough to condemn it in the estimation of every impartial and exalted mind, and has brought upon it a weight of contempt which renders it rather an object of pity than censure.

BOSTON MORNING POST.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1837.

Correspondence of the Boston Post.

Washington, Sept. 3d, 1837-10 P. M. The first question now asked, as a stranger lands from a steamboat, stage, or cars, is, where shall I find a room? and to these, who like myself have arrived at this late hour. the query has not been so pleasantly answered. That "the last shall be first," may be true in some cases, but it certainly is not in travelling; for though I have been the last to arrive, I find I am not the first for a choice of rooms. As to my apartment, I would not complain of its height, but of its distance, as it is situated the farthest from where I could have wished it. The hotels are filled to overflowing, and the garrets of several have recently been partitioned off, to afford, for the moment, a temporary shelter to their numerous inmates. It would appear from the number of strange faces, that the most of those who have heretofore at this travelling season, been visiters at the celebrated watering places, of Ballston, or Saratoga, at the falls of Niagara, or footing it up to the summit of Mount Washington, have turned their steps hither to be present at the opening of the session, to hear subjects discussed which will cause no little anxiety to the speakers, will be so interesting to the hearers, and in their result, of so much importance to the country. Most of the members of the House and Senate have arrived, and in the ratio of numbers, so has their political excitement increased. Here is one among the many anecdotes of the day. It is said there is somewhat of a similarity between the recent situation of Mr Pitcher, and the present one of Mr would-bespeaker Bell. The former, you will recollect, was the candidate of the whigs in Indiana for Congress, and was, it is said, on his way to this city, with "the certificate of his election in his pocket," when the astounding fact was made known to him, that the voters of his district had kindly permitted him to remain at home. So it is with Mr Bell, he has the manuscript speech " in his pocket," which he will surely deliver, should he "only be elected" speaker; we would say to Mr Bell that he need not be under any apprehension of being called upon to deliver it, as he will find himself in a minority of from five to ten votes. Mr Polk will be speaker of the House during the ensuing session, and a most able and efficient man he will be to the administration, in filling so responsible a situation.

Before closing I must say a word of our pleasant ride this afternoon over the Baltimore railroad; the weather was fine, the cars commodious, the company agreeable, and the scenery at certain points, particularly that in the immediate vicinity of Elk Creek Inlet, was peculiarly picturesque and pleasing. I have mentioned this ride, only to parrate an anecdote of Maryland legislation, which for shrewdness, and meanness, surpasses everything which has ever been said of the law givers of Connecticut, from the days of the first George to the period of the Revolution .-To procure a charter for this road, it was necessary that the state should be bribed in the shape of a tax on each

Monday Evening, 8 o'clock, Sept. 4, 1837. At an early hour this morning, the side-walks on either side of the Pennsylvania Avenue, "were filled with people, as was the middle of it with backs, carriages, and vehicles of all kinds, on their way to the Capitol. In observing the crowd hastening on, I was strongly reminded of the "Ettrick Shepherd who on his visit to London, in 1832, happily remarked, that all the folks he saw in the principal streets, seemed to be in as great a burry as if death himself had been following hard at their heels." At ten o'clock the galleries were densely fille! and most of the Representatives were in their seats. At 12 o'clock precisely, the House was called to order by Mr Franklin, late convening of Congress. The roll was then called, when and New Haven. Joseph Lauraille was charged with a particularly outrageous assault on a pretty young lady by the name of Jones, who stat d that she lived with her sister, who was one of his (Lauraile's) tenants ; but being a couple of days in arrear for rent, the isoner undertook to bundle her and her baggage out of the remises by force, and that while he was laying violent hands n a trunk, the complainant laid her hand on his shoulder, and the mockest manner possible beseeched him to handle her siser's household goods gingerly. For this inoffensive act, she said he sprung upon her like a tiger, stuck his two hands into her we eyes, and barbarously threatened to slam her down upon the toor, and stomp her brains out," Miss Jones called upon her ster, to sustain her story, and was not disappointed in the asstance she expected-she toed the chalk to a T, and conclud her testimony with the remark - " I do sincerely believe that e would have killed my sister; for he hild unto her till I skricked nurder three times." Now this was all tolerably tall swearing gainst Lauraille; but he undertook a defence, and made a most lemolishing attack upon the fame of the two sisters in Court, and their two other sisters out of Court. He explained away heir characters with great expedition; but he could not enirely explain away the assault, for in fact, almost overborne va whirlwind of vociferation, he dil attempt to sill the tempest of tongues, by flinging Miss Jones out of the room, For this vile deed, he was not very well-content to pay a fine of $ 1.00, and costs.

Three "dyed in the wool" darkey Sailors, were brought up by Constable Tallant, for assaults, with pistol, knife, and teeth, on Sam'l Cole and his wife-also colored, but apparently respectaole people. I he prisoners being somewhat the better off for a litle extra bitters, entered Mr Cole's house, and began to "sass he women folks, with all sorts ob nasterful kinds ob undeentness ob conversations and observations, not proper to be pested even atween decks on ship board." Mrs Cole was modest woman, and entertained very scrupulous notions about refinement of manners and delicacy of speech, and, as the witness observed told the impudent intruders, that "she warnt to be saised so in her own house, and that they had betr make tracks." This intimation, so far from intimidating the black guards made them savage as well as insolent. One presented a nistol to Cole, and another a knife, while the third. named John Trusty, content to make the most of nature's weapons, first knocked Mrs Cole down, and, then seizing her arm between his treth, till they met. He held on like a bulldog, and did not relax his jaws, till Cole had laid his head open in two places, with a club. In the meantime, Mrs Cole suffered the most excruciating agony. The two first evacuated the premises, when they perceived the battle of the teeth and club raging, but came back again in good season to be jugged by the Watch. All three were committed to answer.

Mrs Dingh, a dusky dear of very dignified deportment, came get a warrant against one Snowden, who, like herself, was far from being snow-colored. This sounded a little pistolish to be sure, but as Snowden left it perfectly ontional with Dinah's hu-band to call for the cold lead, or not, his Honor thought it best to wait awhile in patience to see if he would be such a fool as to do that thing.

There being a loud and angry altercation in the street, Watchman Morgan, of the Southern Division, ordered a dis persion; but instead of doing so Joseph Hanson squared off right and left, and tipped Morgan a winker under each eye. The Court, however, did not sanction this mode of disqualifying a witness, and Hanson was committed for trial at the next term of the Municipal Court.

Burwill came on deck, and found Thompson apparently asleep, and started him by a blow in the face, and heaped upon him various opprobrious epithets The witness stated, that Thompson, at the time, was quite indisposed, and merely laid his head down for a temporary rest. At Hamburg, Thompson qui ted the bark, although there was eight months wages due to him. When he returned to this city he called the bark wages due to him. When he returned to this city he called the bark of the control of the called the bark of the called the called the bark of the called the c ed upon him various opprobrious epithets The witness statwages due to him. When he returned to this city, he called upon Capt. Burwill for these wages, but was received with great insolence He then prepared himself with a cowhide. and laid it about the Captain's head and ears the first time he met him in the street. In alluding to the Captain's conduct toward him, while on board of the bark, Thompson said-" He abused me like a dog, and I would not have staid on board of his vessel even if I was sure of losing my head by leaving it. At the time he struck me I was not asleep, but was so unwell as to be unable to hold my head up, and if he had been anything of a gentleman, I should have asked to be excused from the watch, and went below." Judge Thacher told him, that he had done wrong in deserting the bark in Hambu g, and had still further mistaken his remedy, by assaulting Capt. B in the street. The United States Courts always offered prompt and legal redress for offences committed at sea.

Thompson was then ordered to pay a fine of $40.00, and costs; but replied that he wouldnt pay $5.00, or anything like it for what he had done. We didnt wait to see if he changed his mind, in this particular.

These Pills are composed entirely of materials extracted from Medical Plants, and are warranted not to contain one particle of mercury, or any mineral substance. Dr Kingley, the inventor of this valuable medicine, from his knowledge of the Human System, derived from a long and extensive practice, has arrived to the conclusion, that the great and primary cause of most diseases is a derangement in the functions of cause of most diseases is a derangement in the interiors of the liver; or, in other words, an increased or diminished se cretion of the Bile.

So well is first understood, that it is common for persons to say when they feel unwell, that they are billous, meaning that they have too much bile in the stomach. On the other hand, when the flow of bile is diminished, the process of discourse is investigated. gestion is imperfectly performed, the patient becomes weak and emaciated, because nourishment contained in the food taand emaciated, because nourishment contained in the feod taken into the stomach is not properly extracted, and the food is ejected in a crude state. Dr Kingley is confident that the famous Hygeian Theory, so called, that "impurity of the blood is the cause of all diseases," is a great absurdity. Every one who reflects upon the subject a moment, will perceive that impurity of the blood is a secondary, not a primary complaint—the effect and not the cause of disease. When the functions of the liver are deranged, and the flow of bile increased, it is often taken up by the absorbent vessels and carried into the often taken up by the absorbent vessels and curried into the circulation, and becomes mingled with the blood as in Jaundice, when the patient shows it in his countenance. Now this impurity of the blood is caused by an increased flow of the bile, and to remedy it you must correct the secretion of the iver, and restore it to a healthy state.

Dr Kingley has spent much time in experimenting with different vegetable medicines, for discusses of the liver, and now offers his Universal Family Pills as the best, most convenient and cheapest medicine that can be prepared for general use; and in offering them to the public, he is actuated more by benevolent then pecuniary motives, as the price of the medicine

Dr Kingley flatters himself that his long experimenting with vegetable medicines has enabled him to discover the true and vegetable medicines has enabled him to discover the true and only substitute answering all the purposes of mercurials, without any of their attendant evils. One great quality of his Family Pills is, that they have the alterative principle combined with their cathartic or operative quality, so that they not only cleanse the stomach and bowels by purging, but they regulate the liver, change the morbid secretions, strengthen the digestive organs, purify the blood, invigorate the circulation, and give tone and energy to the nervous system.

They are mill and pleasant in their operation, and convey

They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and convey almost immediate conviction of their utility from the first dosc. They can be taken with safety by persons of any age, and the feeble, the infirm, the nervous, the delicate, are strengthened by their operation, because they clear the system of bad humors, quiet nervous irritabilities and restles-ness, from whatever source, and invariably produce sound sleep

The Family Pills are an invariable remedy for the aundice, sick and nervous headache, dyspepsia, costiveness, sickness of the stomach, hearthurn, all bilious complaints, fevers of all kinds, and it taken at the commencement will invariably check their progress, and save the patient from a protracted and dangerous sickness. They are invaluable in nervous and hypocondrical affections, loss of appetice, and all complaints to which temples alone are subject. They operate as a mild and speedy purge, and are a saie and certain remedy for worms in

Since I have introduced my Universal Family Pills to the public I have received numerous certificates of their superior efficacy in curing diseases; also many letters from respectable physicians who have used them in their practice with the best

Extract of a letter received from a gentleman in Boston, who had suffered severely from indigestion for three years. 'During this time, I suffered very much from mental depression, constant pain in the head and breast, and side, sharp shooting painover almost the whole system—the food that I ate seemed to pass into my lungs and there remain, giving me great pain as tended with a strong degree of heat. At times, I suffered so much from the pain of indigestion as to be confined to the best for two or three days. During one of these most severe attacks much from the paim of indigestion as to be commed to the defor two or three days. During one of these most severe attacke I wan induced by the advice of a friend to try your Vegetabld Medicine. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered better, and by the complaint. I continue, on the better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours completely restores me. It has had with me a very wonderful effect, in strengthening the sto nach and invigorating the whole system, and judging by my own case, I consider it in all diseases connected with the digestive organs to be a very valuable medicine. It has been found singularly efficacious in cases of the most
